DELAWARE, Oh., March 30, 2010 – The public is invited to an Open House at the Delaware General Health District on Friday evening, April 2.

Family activities will include Healthy Corn Toss and Glo-Germ, a goopy activity that helps teach children to wash their hands thoroughly. Visitors can meet with Public Health Nurses and Health Inspectors, get free blood pressure screenings, and learn about booster seat safety and prevention of falling. There will be free drawings for bicycle helmets, car seats, and other healthy prizes. The Open House will run from 5 to 8 p.m. at 3 and 5 W. Winter St., across from Bun's Restaurant.

The Open House has been organized for National Public Health Week, an annual observance set for April 5-11. The special event also will coincide with Main Street Delaware's monthly "First Friday" celebration downtown.
