DELAWARE, Oh., Dec. 10, 2008 – Keep Delaware County Beautiful wants to remind residents about a free disposal option for fallen tree limbs and other storm debris.

Delaware County residents can drop off organic debris for free at Price Farms Organics Inc. at 4838 Warrensburg Road, west of Delaware. Materials are accepted in bulk, tied with organic cords (no nylon), or in paper bags. Residents with stumps or oversized logs (more than 10” in diameter) should call Price Farms at 740-362-4838.

A grant from the Delaware-Knox-Marion-Morrow Solid Waste District provides funds for Price Farms to accept local residents’ yard waste at no charge.

Scrap metal debris may be taken to Sims Recycling at 65 London Road in Delaware. There is no charge for disposal, and the firm will pay for certain metals.

The Delaware County Solid Waste Transfer Station, 888 U.S. 42 North, will accept other debris for a fee, such as vinyl siding, treated and painted wood items, shingles, and insulation. The transfer station phone number is 740-369-7700. Your local waste hauler might also take such debris if you call them.

The City of Delaware Public Works Department will resume curbside yard waste pickup on Jan. 11, and it will continue through Feb. 5. You can reach the Public Works Department at 203-1810.

Contact Keep Delaware County Beautiful at the Delaware General Health District, 740-368-1700, for more information on waste disposal options, recycling opportunities, and litter control programs in Delaware County.
